

CJJ Motorsports Bolsters Support of Irish Auto Racing with Sponsorship of Formula Females Race Team

Formula Female Race Against Cancer to raise money for Irish Cancer Society

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. – July 20, 2018 – Adding to its already substantial support of Irish auto racing and race culture, the John and Suzanne Campion Family Foundation, through their motorsports organization, CJJ Motorsports, has become a sponsor of the Irish Formula Females race team. John Campion, principal of CJJ Motorsports, is an Irish-American businessman and a renowned automotive enthusiast and noted collector.

The sponsorship by CJJ Motorsports is the most recent pledged by the Campions' organization, which lends support to all aspects of Irish auto racing and race heritage and is a key supporter of Team Ireland and Motorsport Ireland. Last month, CJJ Motorsports lent its support to AutoVinco, a student racing team from St. Brigid's College in Galway, Ireland that will compete in the F1 in Schools STEM Challenge World Finals in Singapore this September.

"CJJ Motorsports has a mission to ensure that the next generation of auto and racing enthusiasts are equipped with the tools and support they need in order to flourish," said Suzanne Campion. "The support we're giving to the Formula Females team will help them to ignite the spark created by their passion, while it also solidifies the continuing legacy of Irish auto racing and female drivers."

The Formula Females team, which includes members Nicci Daly and Emma Dempsey, was created by the two life-long friends who were born with racing fuel in their blood. Daly and Dempsey were raised on the tracks and in the circuits of the world's greatest auto racing teams, leading to a lifelong passion for motorsports.

Described as the yard stick for Irish drivers, Nicci's father Vivion Daly was one of the most successful drivers Ireland had ever seen during his 20-year racing career. Vivion passed away from lung cancer 16 years ago. To honor his legacy, Formula Females will use CJJ Motorsports' sponsorship support in part to subsidize the Formula Female Race Against Cancer, in aid of the Irish Cancer Society's cancer research department. The event will take place during the Mondello Historic Racing Festival, at Mondello Park in County Kildare, Ireland, on August 18 and 19.

"Ireland has a rich history in motorsports and it is crucial that we maintain its storied legacy. Nicci and Emma are passionate members of this community, and we feel it's our duty to ensure that they are given every opportunity to carry the torch," noted John Campion. "These women don't just represent the future of Irish racing; they are the future of auto racing on a global stage. The fact that they're using this event to raise money in Vivion's honor for the Irish Cancer Society makes it that much more special."

Daly is a data engineer for U.S.-based Juncos Racing, and Dempsey is a mechanic for U.K.-based Cliff Dempsey Racing, her father's race team.

"CJJ Motorsports are passionate about helping those trying to make a difference and we're thankful that John and Suzanne Campion recognize the difference we're trying to make," said

Nicci Daly, Formula Females. “Not only does it help women in motorsport, but also those affected by cancer. We are delighted to have them behind us.”

For more information about Formula Females, visit their Facebook page. Donations to the Race Against Cancer can be made at the Formula Females JustGiving page. For more information about AutoVinco, please visit cjjautovinco.com. To learn more about Motorsport Ireland, visit motorsportireland.com.

###

About CJJ Motorsports

CJJ Motorsports is owned by John Champion. John is a native of Cork, Ireland and is a rally car enthusiast. CJJ Motorsports sponsors various racing teams, including Motorsport Ireland and Team Ireland, as well as University of North Florida Osprey Racing Team. CJJ Motorsports owns an expansive rally car collection, which includes an impressive collection of Group IV and Group B works cars, including a Lancia Fulvia, Lancia Stratos, Lancia 037, Lancia Delta S4 and Lancia Delta Integrale. Recently, CJJ Motorsports added a Lancia Beta Montecarlo GR5 to its collection. For more information about CJJ Motorsports and John Champion, visit www.johnjcampion.com, and see Instagram and Twitter.

Media Contact:

Scott Merritt

VP of Media Relations, Dalton Agency

(770) 778-4786

smerritt@daltonagency.com